

May Fair Hotel London announced as member hotel of Carlson Rezidor's Quorvus Collection

The iconic May Fair Hotel London, owned and operated by Edwardian Group London, has been announced as a member hotel of Carlson Rezidor's newly launched Quorvus Collection.

The Quorvus Collection is a new generation of expertly curated luxury hotels inspired by the lifestyle and needs of the contemporary global traveller.

It joins The Symphony Style Hotel in Kuwait and the G&V Royal Mile Hotel in Edinburgh.

The member hotels are historic landmarks, contemporary residences, classic boutiques and urban retreats – all different in scale, architecture, ambiance and design, yet committed to the same, unparalleled service philosophy.

Ilye Abraham, Edwardian Group London Commercial Development Director says, "The May Fair Hotel is a luxury, five star hotel at the heart of London's most stylish district, with a fantastically rich heritage dating back to 1927. We are delighted to be included as a member of the Quorvus Collection and believe that this will further enhance our guests' experience."

The May Fair Hotel offers more than 400 luxury bedrooms, including 13 signature suites. In addition, there are 16 meeting and function spaces, the largest of which, the Crystal Room, can host up to 280 guests.

The May Fair Bar captures the spirit of surrounding Mayfair and has played host to some of London's most extravagant society events and serves over 40 decadent cocktails including the signature Mayfair Mojito.

The recently launched May Fair Kitchen is the perfect evocation of The May Fair's exuberant personality. Alluring yet warmly inviting, the new dining experience showcases the best fresh local ingredients in original and contemporary dishes. Coupled with the Cigar Terrace, an exclusive enclave for aficionados and experimenters alike, The May Fair is the ultimate destination in London's most stylish setting.

The hotel also features the May Fair theatre and the May Fair spa.
